BREAKING GROUND FOR THE
COLLEGE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

TEACHER EDUCATION PROGRAM

● The picture above shows Dr. Robert E. McConnell, President of the College, Amanda Hebeler, Director of Training and Principal of the College Elementary School, and William Yeaman, Contractor, breaking ground for the new building which will house the college elementary school. This building, costing $280,000, will make possible an educational program consistent with the latest educational philosophy and practices.

● Modern education demands teachers with thorough understanding of the problems of child growth and development, demands skill in the use of approved methods and techniques, involves skill in counseling, and ability to guide the growing personalities of children. It is essential that the teacher have desirable social and cultural traits and that the function of public education in our form of government be understood.

● The Central Washington College provides just such an education which culminates, at the end of four years of successful work, in the Degree of Bachelor of Arts in Education and a certificate to teach in the elementary and junior high schools of the State. A temporary certificate may be obtained at the end of three years of study.

● The education of teachers includes study in the arts and sciences, instruction in specific subject matter fields, courses in psychology and child growth and development, and directed teaching where the skills and insights into instructional problems are developed under the direction of specialists.

● The development of the social and cultural traits is provided in the excellent program of student activities, dramatic and musical productions, and group living characteristic of the college residence halls.

● The ambitious student will find at the Central Washington College of Education the opportunity to prepare for effective service under the most favorable conditions.

A complete health service and courses in health and hygiene are provided.

● Participation in one of the several activities is part of the daily program of all freshmen and sophomores. MUSIC AND ART

● The offerings in these divisions are designed to fulfill the following purposes: they provide students with intelligent acquaintance in the general field of the arts as a basic element in one's cultural background, establishing thereby standards of excellence and fine taste; and they help students develop those skills and attitudes essential for teaching the arts in the public schools.

● Music is an important and vital experience in the life of each individual and a necessary part of teacher education. The college is cognizant of this fact and endeavors to conduct a varied music program. Private work in voice, piano, organ, stringed and wind instruments is offered. Courses in sight singing, harmony, composition, conducting, appreciation, and public school music enable one to develop a fine musical technique and to prepare for teaching public school music.
